Draw the Chinese character for generosity, 恕 (shu), in the box below.

Notice it is a blend of three characters, including female奴 (nu) and mouth 口 (kou) on the top, as well as heart 心 (xin) on the bottom.

恕

Reflect:

How is a Chinese/Confucian perspective on generosity similar or different from American or other cultural perspectives?